

GREEN = GROWTH

Meeting the Demand for Green Meetings

As the “green awareness” of corporations nationwide grows to an unprecedented level, demand for meetings and conferences that use only green materials is on the rise as well. In some cases, your willingness to host a green meeting may actually make the difference between getting the business or not.

USFI | GreenWorks offers a comprehensive range of recycled stationery, cards, printing, pens, pencils and more to bring a greener tint to the meetings and conferences you host.

Go for the green

Isn't that what going green is all about? Intervening in the usual way of staging events and introducing viable new choices? Combine the sheer utility of these green items with the marketing opportunity they present and you're doing at least three good things: facilitating green meetings, helping your operation and helping the planet.

Green minds grow great ideas

All our products grow from the fertile creative thinking and marketing strategy of USFI Marketing Communications, whose total collective expertise is brought to bear on the most important objective of all—lifting your top-line revenue by booking more green meetings.
